(Kris Kristofferson)

I come from just the other side of nowhere to this big time lonesome town
They got a lotta ice and snow here half as cold as all the people I found Every way I've tried to go here seems to bring me down I've seen about enough to know where I belong.

I've got a mind to see the headlight Shining on that old white line between my heart and home
Sick of spending Sundays wishing they was Mondays sittin' in a park alone
So give my best to anyone who's left who's ever done me any loving way but wrong And tell 'em that the pride of just the other side of nowhere going home.

Taking nothing but to show there for these dues I've paid
But the soul I almost sold here and the body I've been given away
Fadin' from the neon night time glow here headin' for the light of day
Just the other side of nowhere going home.

Just the other side of nowhere going home...
