Hold back the rushing minutes make the wind stand still

Don't let the moonlight shine across the lonely hill

Dry up the raindrops then hold back the sun

The world has ended, my baby's gone

I'll wake up sometime in the night and realize you're gone

I toss and turn and stare at darkness waiting for the dawn

I try to tell my lonely heart, we'll make it all alone

But still the world has ended, my baby's gone

Hold back the rushing minutes make the wind stand
still

Don't let the moonlight shine across the lonely hill

Dry up the raindrops push back the dawn

The world has ended my baby's gone

Don't they know the world has ended, my baby's gone
