(Bette Thomasson)

There's no fool like a young fool with wild and careless way

Who forgets about tomorrow and lives for just today

If she could only realize the sorrow that's in store

She'd try behavin' on for sights and honky tonk no more.

It breaks my heart to see her sitting there

With tavern lights shining in her hair

Life won't be as sweet to her tomorrow as today

There's no fool like a young fool who throws her life away.

--- Instrumental ---

Now the dim lights and the drinking seem like fun I know

But she'll find out one morning you reap just what you sowed

The sad part is she'll be alone once she starts to fall

There's no fool like a young fool who thinks she knows it all.

It breaks my heart to see her sitting there

With tavern lights shining in her hair

Life won't be as sweet to her tomorrow as today

away...
