Too late, too late to ask forgiveness
Too late, too late for me to cry
You've gone, you've gone you left this morning
I should have known you'd say goodbye

You know I love you as no other
But you have played around too long
Goodbye good luck and don't forget me
Although I know that you are wrong

Too late, too late my heart keeps saying
I should have known you'd never try
But you can't change your way of living
I know that there's no use to cry

You know I love you as no other
But you have played around too long
Goodbye good luck and don't forget me
Although I know that you are wrong
