Why did you marry?
Oh why did you marry?
You could have been an actress
You could have been a doctor
You could have been somebody people wish they knew

Why did you marry?
Oh why did you marry?
Did no one ever tell you
To fly to the moon
To not get tied down too soon
To shop around

Oh all the places youâ€™d go
All the folks youâ€™d meet
Theyâ€™d say, â€œHoney, youâ€™ve still got it!â€
But no, that was twenty-some-odd years ago Today youâ€™re just getting by Youâ€™re just getting by

Why did you marry?
Oh why did you marry?
Did somebody convince you
Through sermons and psalms
That you could be happy
Just tagging along

Oh all the places youâ€™d go
All the folks youâ€™d meet
Theyâ€™d say, â€œHoney, thank god you didnâ€™t end up like all of the other girls on your streetâ€
Theyâ€™re just getting by
Theyâ€™re just getting by

But I think that I know
Yes I know why you married
Itâ€™s just like in the movies
The novels and plays
Where no one ever says,

â€œThanks Cary Grant, but I think Iâ€™ll just get my own placeâ€

Oh all the places youâ€™d go
All the folks youâ€™d meet
Theyâ€™d say, â€œHoney, youâ€™ve still got itâ€
and guess what, weâ€™ve all got it too
So pull up a seat
Weâ€™re just getting by Weâ€™re just getting by
