I don't want to leave this time
Feel the pressure exploding in my head
See the guilt resting in my eyes

I never wanted to leave you when you needed me
Leave you when you needed me
I'm doing the best I can now to leave the rest behind

And I think that I'm drowning
In the warm California sun
And I've never felt so alone before
Got to find a way to get back home

The empty shade of blue
A cruel reminder in this now
Reveals a pain in you

I never wanted to leave you when you needed me
Leave you when you needed me
I'm doing the best I can now to leave the rest behind

And I think that I'm drowning
In the warm California sun
And I've never felt so alone before
Got to find a way to get back home

And I think that I'm drowning
In the warm California sun
And I think that I'm drowning
Got to find a way to get back home

There's no one here that understands me
I need the love of my family to keep going on

And I think that I'm drowning
In the warm California sun
And I've never felt so alone before
Got to find a way to get back home

And I think that I'm drowning
In the warm California sun
And I think that I'm drowning

Got to find a way to get back home

Got to find a way to get back home

Got to find a way to get back home

I think I?m drowning

I think I?m drowning
