At the first bell of the day
They rise up from where they lay
And look down with a promise in their hands
A promise to get out
This ain't what it's all about
There's always lots of reasons for their plans
When that golden sun shines through There's always one more thing to do Just one more stab into the wishing well
That's what they always say, I'm getting out That's what they always say, ain't that just what they always say
That's what they always say, just one more little thing
left in my way
That's what they always say, ain't that just what they
always say
I'm getting out, I'm holding on I'm hanging in, the time is wrong
And every morning brings another reason
A piece of cake, no lions share
Just one more dice and you'll be there
That golden bridge is just around the bend
That's what they always say, I'm getting out
That's what they always say, ain't that just what they
always say
That's what they always say, just one more little thing
left in my way
That's what they always say, ain't that just what they
always say
Tomorrow is another day
And the money junkie fades away
That golden bridge is just around the bend
That's what they always say, I'm getting out
That's what they always say, ain't that just what they
always say
That's what they always say, just one more little thing
left in my way
That's what they always say, ain't that just what they
always say
