When the coast of California sinks into the ocean and the ice poles are water and England's green and pleasant land is all desert sand no one will answer you when you call when even the farthest stars start collapsing
back to the beginning and there's no room for heaven when the world is an old man with no time for the future
will love mean a thing?
does love mean a thing now anyway?
make me a drink Caroline tall and icy
who can sleep with all of this noise?
thank you Caroline
Caroline goodnight!
