Ever since it all began it was clear to me but suppressed in my mind holding on too long to things from the inside hollow, outside it goes on i seem to be more insecure and incompetent with every day
'cause you're perfect splendour stretches out undeniable in every thinkable way but it's hard to put aside, i think i'm still in self-denial everyday is like a trial, so long, so long but as we go blindly, somethings stay the same but as we go blindly, all stories have an end, and so does this one

i hope i still mean the same to you as you do to me now and every time i hope that you still understand all the things i say and all the things i do i've finally come to terms with that we're two constellations sharing the same star and without this natural link we wouldn't shine as bright as we are

everyday is like a trial, so long, so long
but as we go blindly, somethings stay the same
does this one
