It comes just like a comet. I see it, I feel this feeling over me. I'm doing everything to support my each and every dream, and when my dream is this close to me I can't help but scream that this way's the way for me. I'll make you see that this way's the way for me. I'll make you see what is meant by dedication. You put your heart to something true; these things that mean the world to you. For example, this simple machine means a billion things to me. There's nothing you can do to stop me or this machine. I'll make you see that this way's the way for me. I'll make you believe these things we know. Take the time to show this brand new road, this brand new home. Once as a hare, forever the tortoise. This head, safe to see this so far. This heart, safe to take this so far. Forever the tortoise. My protective shell protects my insides from all foul attempts to take this passion.
