Sleeping on your shoulder
On this humming train
That lipstick makes you look older
But this pillow feels just the same.

Far beneath the bench we ride
The metal tracks lay side by side
Caught in the coast through this life

And you close your eyes whenever we collide
And it's pushing these questions aside.

But you're black and white
So then capture the feeling
But this countryside is gonna come to life

You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that I'd feel so alive
You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that you'd be by my side

Sad, clean and still I seem
My memory rolls
To a time when I was 6 years old
Driving through my mind like smoke, like fire
Like the voices of a choir
Telling me "never give up"

But you're black and white
So then capture the feeling
But this countryside is gonna come to life

You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that I'd feel so alive
You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that you'd be by my side.

This time I wanna see the ending
Find out if love is worth waiting on, yeah.
I know the fire, I'll just stand here waiting
To see that love, I burn.

I burn.

You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that I'd feel so alive
You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that you'd be by my side

You know I...
You know I never felt so lucky
Never thought that you'd be by my side
