RISE

From the depths they've risen

ALIVE

I have reprimanded and conquered the liar in the sky who holds your fate

This world will end in abolishment of mankind; admonish those who fear death

For all the empty souls that I have condemned will walk the earth

For every murder that hath been committed

The number of dead is increasing

Oh the hell that is yet to unfold

With ever right and ember to burn the future of what lies ahead

The bodies shall awaken again

Risen from the dead to recreate an epitomy of this failsafe world that has fallen

This rotten deceiver of mankind will burn in his book of lies

Lies shall condemn all of the demons you've sent to hell.

The death and greed will surely swallow us all

For would you have given your ear; this all could have been foretold

In your hopeless memory of what has been destroyed will stand a monument of grief and your suffering

You've fallen product to the structure

Inside the many of his lies I have explained

So while you're basking in your worthlessness

Get on your knees and close your fucking hands

You'll all rot dead in your graves
