One large bed half empty and cold
Am I too young to be feeling this old
A box full of you still lies on my shelf
Still feels like you're here
But you're with someone else

Come home to me now
Drive as fast as you can
Don't drag out another excuse again
A lifetime of blame can all melt away
If we can figure out another way

It's raining in me
Falling down around me now
No sunshine to see
I want to heal things tell me how
You've been my shelter for so long
Am I a fool to keep holding on
It's raining in me

Staring out of the window as the clouds roll in Distant rumbling of a storm about to begin
How could you let what we had fade away
Guess you were never man enough
To believe you could stay

Come home to me now
Drive as fast as you can
Don't drag out another excuse again
A lifetime of blame can all melt away
If we can figure out another way

It's raining in me
Falling down around me now
No sunshine to see
I want to heal things tell me how
You've been my shelter for so long
Am I a fool to keep holding on
It's raining in me

How it all used to be

When you were here with me
I can see it wasn't worth much to you
So come home to me now
I'm waiting waiting for you

It's raining in me
Falling down around me now
No sunshine to see
I want to heal things tell me how
You've been my shelter for so long
Am I a fool to keep holding on
It's raining in me
Raining in me
Falling down
Falling down
Raining in me
