I dreamed that I was in my room, when much to my surprise

I found that if I flapped my arms it made me start to rise.

I waved my arms a little more, then floated off the ground.

I rose up to the ceiling and I had a look around.

I flapped around my bedroom, then decided what I'd do.

I opened up my window, waved my arms and out I flew.

Fly Flying through the night.

Fly And everything's alright.

I flew around the city with surprising grace and ease.

I sailed among the rooftops and I soared above the trees.

I chased a pair of pigeons round the playground in the park

I raced beside a robin and I frolicked with a lark.

Fly Flying through the night.

Fly And everything's alright.

And when I tired of flying and decided I should rest,

I joined a sleeping eagle for a nap inside his nest.

I thought that it was just a dream. I knew it had to be.

Until I woke to find that I was sleeping in a tree!

Fly Flying through the night.

Fly And everythings alright.
