i don't know if the seas will rise way above the shores wash away the evidence of all that went before and i don't know if our ancestors dwell somewhere up above
i don't know so many things but i know i've got your love and i don't know what the future holds or what we leave behind if in seven generations time history will be kind i don't know if the things we learned will ever be enough
i don't know so many things but i know i've got your
love
i don't know what made me smile across the room that night
two strangers finding tender love in the early morning light i don't know if what we started was blessed by God
love
the ways of teenage angels can live forever more i never knew a love like yours could shake me to core i don't know where we came from or where we'll all end up
i don't know so many things but i know i've got your
love
i know i've got your love (x3)
