[DL: there's actually two sets of lyrics running through this

Song. The one at the left is the main which is more "in the front",

While the other at the right is more "whispered" in the background. They

Also don't go quite at the same rate]

I am waiting There's an edge to life

For a king that will cut you like a knife

To rule my mind when you lay your head down.

Or anything. There's a castle of sand

I don't need your that gets kicked in your face

Hands of gold to see how easily you'd fall from grace.

To take me where There's a piece of toast

I need to go... that crumbles in your hand

I...I...I... if you decide to lose control.

A simple man, No one can escape you

Well, he could do more when you find out they're fake

But you only see the traces and you want to take

That have gone before. the whole lot down.

Yeah...Yeah...Yeah...Yeah...

Yeah...Yeah...Yeah...Yeah...

There's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow

If you will walk the white line through.

There's a piece of toast that crumbles in your hand

If you decide to lose control.

There's a castle of sand that gets kicked in your face

To see how easily you'd fall from grace.

Yes, there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

There's an edge to life that will cut you like a knife

When you lay your head down.

You know you can't escape when you find out they're fake

And you want to take the whole lot down.

There's no truth in the lie that only angels cry

When everybody knows we're all born to die.

There's an edge to life that will cut you like a knife.

Hate this end [MB: (or you) or your best guess on this one]

There's no power that is such a thrill

That it can make a man [MB: no idea, sorry]

[MB: This song also features some italian (or what we guess
Is italian) running at the end of the song. We were unable to decipher
It]
