(Willy Braun)

I see you talking on a pay phone
I see you walking through the parking lot alone
I see you sitting on a park bench
You're everywhere and it makes no sense
But it's nothing new
Everybody looks like you.

I see you driving on the freeway
I heard your name on the radio today
A redhead on the trolley car
And every girl in this bar
With green eyes or blue
Everybody looks like you.

Everybody looks like you
But they can't take your place
Everybody looks like you
Everywhere I turn I see your face.

You're pushing strollers on the sidewalk
Your head back laughing at the coffee shop
With a flower tattoo
Everybody looks like you.

I see your face on a billboard
Standing in line at the grocery store
And the movies too
Everybody looks like you.

I see you sitting on a park bench
You're everywhere and it makes no sense
But it's nothing new
Everybody looks like you.

Everybody looks like you
Everybody looks like you...
