So full of hate, you've sealed your fate
and your world's still crumbling down
So many scars after all the wars and wars and wars
and your world's still crumbling down
Your battle cry echoes as you die
and your world's still crumbling down

The rockets fly across the sky
and your world's still crumbling down
You take and take, for heaven's sake
and your world's still crumbling down
You only feel the pain you deal and deal and deal
and your world's still crumbling down Peace can't be known, that dove has flown
and your world's still crumbling down
