Why will a man go out and cheat what makes temptation so sweet And it's a shame the neon lights will make a man stay all night
With a girl in a bar down the street
I never meant to be that man but last night I held another's hand
Though her kisses tasted sweet that's not what made me cheat
So I'll try and explain if I can Where where where could I go oh when I needed love you weren't there
And her two open arms offered love sweet and warm where could I go but to her

Please forgive my one mistake and I'd swear it's the last I'll ever make Let those arms I need the most take me back hold me close
For loving you is a habit I can't break Where where where could I go oh when you feel the urge to go wrong
The next time I'm tempted when my glass is emptied where will I go I'll go home
