"Salute To The Nurses"

After the battle after the fight many owe their lives to the ladies and men in white

And all of the men in this war torn land salute the nurses of Vietnam

They know the awful toll of war each day they know more than any the price we pay

A soldier his hands too burned to write a nurse takes down his words through the lonely night

They have gone to the front where men fought in the night from Pleiku to Qui Nhon where war these men fight

Many a wounded soldier pain is eased for a while by opening his eyes to see a nurses smile

To each of the wounded on the operating shelf these nurses give a part of themselves

I know every soldier to the last man will sometimes say a prayer for the nurses of Vietnam

After the battle after the fight many owe their lives to

And all of the men in this war torn land salute the
nurses of Vietnam
