Won't you show me who you are?
I've seen your house and seen your car
I used to be so much more sorted than I am now
I'm not perfect but I'm still a star

I will not compete with you
Not the way you want me to
We could stand up and fight through the night
And we'd both die trying

I'd been waiting for a haven
From this self consumer nation
Of material endeavor
I think I prefer old labor

Disconnect the faithful few
Get the children in their room
