I don't care to say what I failed to recognize Every single day from the poker to the prize
Running out of Springfield
I worked for the Capitol Air, in the bags Found a woman there who said she had a mind to make me a messenger man

If my father took his life for the national plan, I don't care I'm not about to stick my grave with an apron and a bucket of plans, never ever I can take the pillow cases off the yellow pillows, make a property line from the bed In the living room, the living room, the morning papers made the most out of nothing at all

So we took the room with a view of the runaway I took off my clothes, and she took it for a holiday I was taken for all the things that I never had before Running out of Springfield

she left me with a note saying:
"Bobby, don't look back."

And if my wife took a bicycle ride with a knife in her hand I saw it coming All the shad-flies run at once with a trumpet or a train, oh I'm running from it

Wait a minute, wait a minute,
Give a minute, lady I can explain the aftershave

Wait a minute, wait a minute,
give a minute
Bobby got a shad fly caught in his hair

(Yes, he does)
