And I'm runnin' for an earhole
looking for the exit sign to outside my mind
Everybody wants to talk and I want peace when I want to be alone you call on me and I'm tryin' to breathe through Brillo pad lungs when I want to go to sleep that's when daylight comes and I ain't ready for tomorrow or is that today you insisted that I borrow then refused to let me pay
looking for the way
to that neon garden
where I used to play When I'm looking for an answer you confuse me everytime when I get off of probation you go and do a crime and I'm tryin' to see through extremely blurry vision when I start not to care you start thinking with precision when I'm stallin' for time why do I live so fast and you're hoping for a future livin' in the past
All my childhood pictures

had sunny skies and sparkling eyes not being allowed to feel can kill why do we let it get so real?
I was just a kid
hey, were you there?
yeah
