Nana, nana nanana
Nana nanana nana

All is lost today but I still can say
I will always have this song to sing to you
Of suns going down, of roads out of town
Just like trains driving on tracks over meadow'

Away to remote stations, all them on ball
Empty but full of our freedom for souls
Where wonderers are feeling for lands I go to
I want to be closer to you

When I, when I have nothing, I will want to sing for you
My song of blue skies that come
Then suddenly come, they gust over there and from
My song of blue skies to come

All is lost today but I still can say
I always have winds, that run in the sky
And suns going down, open roads out of town
Through seven mountains and over the nightseas

Flying to worlds like birds in the air
It all seems like dream', but you are no' there
Wonders I feeling for lands I go to
I want to be closer to you

When I, when I have nothing, I will want to sing for you
My song of blue skies that come
Then suddenly come, they gust over there and from
My song of blue skies to come

Heyâ€¦!

Nana, nana nanana
Nana nanana nana

Nana nanana nana
Nanana nana, nanana nana nana

When I, when I have nothing, I will want to sing for you
My song of blue skies that come
Then suddenly come, they gust over there and from
My song to come
My song of blue skies to come
