"Wish God Was A Woman"

your scent still sleeps in my bed the click and clacking from your high heels in my head and now my tears are dancing with the rain painting a picture of you on the pavement chorus

every time i look at you i wish god was a woman too a woman just like you every time i think of you i wish god was a woman too

it's been so long since i kissed your mouth and it still feels like you cut my heart right out and now i'm so tired you're so far from me when i close my eyes you still make me happy

and as i'm laying all alone my other side won't let me sleep only my dreams can bring you home where my naked soul is yours to keep
