Lately I've been thinking
I feel more lost than found
The sand around me is sinking
I thought I stood on solid ground
When everything I've put my hope in
Seems to have let me down
When all my dreams escape me
Without a sound

When everything is broken, everything is gone
When there's nothing left to hold on, hold onto
You give me something better, more than just a feeling
You give me something real to hold on, hold onto

I keep lifting empty buckets out from empty wells
Expecting something different in the midst of this dry spell
But I know there's more to put my trust in
When my strength is running out
I know there's living water to be found

When everything is broken, everything is gone
You give me something better, more than just a feeling
You give me something real to hold on, hold onto

I'm holding on, I'm holding on to You

When everything is broken, everything is gone

When everything is broken, everything is gone
You give me something better...
You give me something real to hold on, hold onto
