weights bear down pulling me under i look around shadows are staring at me laughing at me letting me know where i stand air is taken away from my lungs from emotions that form quite slow and the pit of darkness consumens my every way im scared but trembling keeps me sane where along the path did i take so many wrong turns how did i end up face down crying letting pillows catch my tears?
how did i even build up a tolerance to deal with this?
depression is something i dont miss can i keep me from falling into deeper parts of this hell on earth exposing my true colors to the world withering from these wrists
now the air has gone cold and lifeless someone had put their hand on my head the sensation i'm feeling is real can't explain the new way that i feel so refreshed i could conquer the world pack my bags cause i'm through with with this girl show me heaven im through with this hell and to think i would die for no reason at all stressing because of you now im leaving good-bye the grey sky has gone blue this time i'll remain true...to myself for the longest time i was lost willing to kill the pain at any cost pushing me relentlessly to the edge of it all now my feet are touching the ground the doors have opened wider and i can see you at a distance you're weeping (x2)
i can't see you i guess i could care ask you what's wrong
but i wont ill let you wither in your place from the look on your face...you see a clearer sky cause we're through with all of this i've had enough , enough of you i've had enough of this tearing down these walls that block my progression this poison we brew called love broken hearts - broken neck
