green button like a lantern illuminates this cavern and outside nothing matters anymore my instinct won't deceive me my senses will not leave me when there's no one left to grieve me I won't mourn good night, don't fear I always will watch over you my dear good night, sleep well I'll see you with the rest of them in hell my hand won't shake the console my handcuff will not rattle as I win the final battle of all wars and down beneath the ocean I'll dream of wings in motion a blinding glory that'll show 'em what freedom's for good night, don't fear I always will watch over you my dear good night, sleep well I'll see you with the rest of them in hell and so, for now, farewell...
