Stepping on the cracks in the sidewalk
Ain't worried 'bout no bad things happening to me Ain't looking back at where I been,
Just where I want to be

I was just a kid. I didn't know what I wanted
He was just a kid. I left him brokenhearted
Would he wait, would he wait, would he wait for me?
Yeah. Would he wait for me?

Everything I'll ever need I found
on the streets of Brooklyn
I'm coming back around
This place is home and it's got him
It took some time to find my way
Go tell him that I'm here to stay
On the streets of Brooklyn.

The scenery has changed
This place has gotten more run down
Passed the places we used to hang I'd smile when he'd come around

We'd walk the avenue, holding hands and laughing
Somehow I always knew
I'd come on back to where it all began
Did he wait for me? Yeah. Did he wait for me?

Everything I'll ever need I found
on the streets of Brooklyn
Hell I'm not backing down
I'm gonna keep on looking for him.
Ain't nothing getting in my way
I'm gonna get him back someday...

Everything I need to know
I learned on the streets of Brooklyn
I left a long long time ago
But my heart stayed here with him

Everything I'll ever need I found

on the streets of Brooklyn
I'm coming back around
This place is home and it's got him
I hope it's not too late for me
I wonder did he wait for me?

He's leaning on my old front gate
Turns to me, says "you're pretty late".
"Whouda thought you'd take this long to get ready for our date"?
"Of course I'd wait, on the streets of Brooklyn".
So glad he stayed on the streets of Brooklyn.
