I stay here with my hands crossed
Asking myself how it happened in this way
The questions rankle me I dream for answers
Why the world hates me
Why couldn't I find my path
Why my love left me
Why inspiration never got to me
Desperate to know I seek the truth

The world I created is not what it meant to be
People dragged themselves into dreads of lies
You were chosen to be their savior
But you failed, even worse

You chose the darkness instead of light
The disrespect that you showed
Proved the death of mankind
That's why you're miserable lonely and afraid

You will never know your faith or doom
You will always fail in your quests for glory
You will die from hunger and agony
Within the sacred hour you will vanish

Why was I chosen to be, the one who will save them
Why will I suffer forever
Why am I better than the others
How did I deserve this honor
I did nothing wrong
Thou I struggled for long
I can't fulfill my destiny
I can't make the world better

People will suffer, cause you couldn't save them
I chose you, cause you proved you can fight
But there is nothing left for me to think so
Whatever you do, it's your life and your fate
