does it rain like it rains here on fifth street?
nine days long the raindrops finding what's wrong
this roof i've raised over my head does time fly like it does here on the second-floor? five ways to go but only one place to be if only i could get there from here only i could get today if only i could get there today wish it was simple like a train-ride behind windows in this while time flies like sand through fingers wish it was simple like colour the flashes in the soul like talk-phones connected to imaginary friends you might not know how it gets

you might not know

and if it was simple like a smile on paper plate faces instead of pages of songs with no words

does it rain like it rains here on fifth street?
if only i could get out of here today wish i could get out of here today if only i could get out of here today
