As the new sunlight rays
Bad news it never seems to fade
Wars once fought for our father's Gods above
Now for riches found underground

Suffocated without heir
Tomorrow feels like it is not a day
Another bank drawn empty
And our pockets full of foreign currency

Who's to blame?
Put your fingers away
Me and you

An image of strength so important to portray
Even when our insides rot away
Greedy men will never die
Hope this storm leaves a few of our boys alive

Who's to blame?
Put your fingers away
Me and you
