In the end of every road think of those you left behind
Are you there all alone? Are there any tears to cry?
Sorry for the things you did, but sorrow wouldn't take you far
Step ahead, and just proceed; keep your memories in a jar
Answers they hide inside your eyes
High in the sky lines
Calling your name out from the night

Hopes of glory, bedtime stories
Nothing to believe today; dreams begin to fade away
Doubts of making; feel so forsaken
You're walking in circles...

But look for the sky lines, breath out your pain and Follow my trail down to your mind
I'll be there waiting; nearing and fading
Look for the writings in the blind.

Trapped and confused inside those lies
You're high in the sky lines
Falling so deep in search of light.
