You'll never win, I won't break down
Because I have the strength of a million souls
Though you will try, I won't despair
Because I've lived the life of a million lives
Always known just where I was going
To have peace with me
And to have peace with you
And I can see that day
Yes I can see that day
Do you know just where you're going?
Do you have the strength to pursue your dreams?
Through the years my eyes have cried
But I don't run away from the things I fear
There's no question that I am here
To have peace with me
And to have peace with you
And I can see that day
Yes I can see that day
You'll never win, I won't break down
Because I have the strength of a million souls
Though you will try, I won't despair
Because I've lived the life of a million lives
Always known just where I was going
