I spent some time in Carolina
Thought those mountains out there just might do the trick
Two weeks of sunsets took my breath
But I still remember what I went there to forget

I'm lookin' for a place
To turn my heart around
Where I can hear your name
Without breaking down
What I was lookin' for Wasn't in the mountain air
But I gotta start somewhere

So I'm gonna take a chance this evening
On someone who just might sweep me off my feet
He holds me close I close my eyes
I see your face
And I realize that I'm

Still lookin' for a place
To turn my heart around
Where I can see your face
Without breaking down
Dancing in his arms
I didn't find the answer there
But I gotta start somewhere

Thought I could drown your memory in a glass
Thought time might fix the way I feel
But after all I've tried I'm still

Lookin' for a place
To turn my heart around
Where I can hear your name
Without breaking down
Tonight I'll get on my knees
Pray to find healing there
Lord I gotta start somewhere
I've gotta start somewhere
