They think they have the answers, for questions you don't ask
They think they know your future, by judging from your past

They tell you of your problems, and you bow right in Inside you know they are full of it, they need you more than you need them

It doesn't really matter, what they see in you
They think they know it better, but don't believe it's true Don't listen to these people, they don't know what they say
Don't worry about that noise, your better off that way
It's all into the void

They say that your not perfect, but no one is But really you are special and their a bunch of kids

It doesn't really matter, what they see in you
They think they know it better, but don't believe it's true Don't listen to these people, they don't know what they
say
Don't worry about that noise, your better off that way
It's all into the void

In the void, In the void...
In the void

(Violin solo)

It doesn't really matter, what they see in you
They think they know it better, but don't believe it's true Don't listen to these people, they don't know what they
Don't worry about that noise, your better off that way

It doesn't really matter, what they see in you
They think they know it better, but don't believe it's true Don't listen to these people, they don't know what they

Don't worry about that noise, your better off that way
It's all into the Void
