I get my beat with you When we see things through And I think about you all the time

Who the winners in the game were playing I don't even think they know Who the losers and how much their paying I don't even think they know

I need to hear the truth From the soul of you Chase the moments we can share

Who the winners in the game were playing I don't even think they know Who the losers and how much their paying I don't even think they know They got time They got life Take and take your time

I got to hear the sound of the morning song As the light plays with your head I'm blowing smoke and I'll feel so damn fine I know you care
