Daddy said a feeling would grab me
And like a wind would blow me far from home
Today is the day that feeling grabbed me
Today is the day I see I've been alone

I've been around, went through the motions
I'd make a promise then I'd run and hide
Today, I feel a real emotion
Today, I only want you by my side

'Cause something happens when you look into my eyes
Something happens, something happens
There's no mistaking and it cannot be denied
Something happens, something

The games I played were nothing but trouble
Sometimes I woke up feeling black and blue
Today, I feel a real emotion
Today is the day I woke up loving you

Something happens when I look into your eyes
Something happens, something happens
There's no mistaking and it cannot be denied
Something happens, something

Daddy said a feeling would grab me
Never told me it would be quite like this
Don't want to wake up feeling guilty, no
I just want to wake up to your kiss

Something happens when you look into my eyes
Something happens, something happens
No mistaking and it cannot be denied
Something happens, something happens

Something happens when I look into your eyes
Something happens, something happens
No mistaking and it cannot be denied
Something happens, something

Something happens when you look into my eyes
Something happens, something happens

No mistaking and it cannot be denied
Something happens, something
Something happens when you look into
