Now all of this has gone
When can we find out what went wrong
The pages have been turned
And now I look into the frightfulness within

Everytime the mirror places it's look
Upon my untouched graces
I save, a second or two
And even though the clock strikes nine
I've always got a little time for you
We never thought it through

I have some, unextraordinary news
I'll tell whoever listens to me
Just hold out, the key to salvation
Is closer than you think

Now many years have passed
What can we do to make this last
I've seen everything you do
And from every point of view
You never followed through

Everytime the mirror places it's look
Upon my untouched graces
I save, a second or two
And even though the clock strikes nine
I've always got a little time for you
We never thought it through

I have some, unextraordinary news
I'll tell whoever listens to me
Just hold out, the key to salvation
Is closer than you think

Same old people, same old places
Nothing ever seems to change but
Nothings ever been the same
Ever since our little game

I have some, unextraordinary news

I'll tell whoever listens to me
Just hold out, the key to salvation
Is closer than you think (x2)
