"Free To Fall"

With every step I take I'm walking further into hell
The worst part is there's no one here to save me from myself
Falling faster now, there's no doubt I'm breaking down
You kept me safe and sound

Why does fate have to break everything so strong it can't be broken
Why does life have to be so cruel
Why do we leave when there's so many things we left unspoken
We're left blind, free to fall, without a clue

The broken path I've made has left me stranded here alone
The lies have turned me all around, I can't find my way back home Fighting for the truth, it's no use. I'm breaking down
What we lost will never be found again

Why does fate have to break everything so strong it
can't be broken
Why do we leave when there's so many things we left
We're left blind, free to fall, without a clue

Try as I might I can't erase what's been done I won't win the fight with the monster I've become

Why does fate have to break everything so strong it
can't be broken
Why does life have to be worth the fight
Why do we leave when there's so many things we left
unspoken
We're left alone, a candle in the night
