

Richard Julian "Don't Wait Up"

Visit "Don't Wait Up" on MotoLyrics.com

Flying half-mast, overcast with a gun ship grey You ever hear of such a thing, a spring with no month of May?
Ooh, there's frost on memorial day Ohh, love, I'm half blind, could you help me find my way?

I chewed all the fun from my gum waiting for a train I fell prey to those thoughts that come when you're caught in the rain Ooh, I'm on the edge, I'm in the yellow paint Ohh, love, I'm half mad, let's hope that means I'm half sane

The touch of your lips, a lunar eclipse, so soft
And yet this river of doubt, the spout that I can't turn off Ooh, I want your flu, baby, not just your cough Please make me a man, not this sham whom love leaves lost

Staring out at the church at the pigeons perched in the eaves Wondering what might have been had I not fallen in with thieves
Ooh, could you make that a double please?
Ohh, love, it's late, don't wait up for me Love, it's late, don't wait up for me, don't wait up

Visit Richard Julian page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.