No, that wasn't really you, no, that wasn't really me
We were just making movies
Those were two people we pretended to be for a while
We were just making movies

You got into make up, I stuttered my lines
We were just making movies
You said, one minute, I'll draw the blinds
We were just making movies

Lights, camera, action
Ohh, but the coming attraction
Ohh, but the coming attraction
Ohh, but the coming attraction

Special effects, violence and sex
We knew how to make movies
On the edge of our seats, we wanted to know what came next
Sure is fun at the movies

It really looked like a classic, we were well on our way
Till the script got ambitious and the plot went astray
And it left us off here at these questions today
Were we really only making movies?

Was it really only movies?
We were just making movies
