If I crashed into your marketplace with my solitary slur
All the meaning, I could not pronounce, you'd have to infer

Now I'm leaving you forever
And I'll make sure not to fly
And if I do it won't be over your sky

There's a lifetime I would wait for you
If I thought it'd be a cure
But as a I look inside my crystal ball
I'm never quite that sure
There's no certainty in these games I play There's no hope that I can keep There's only last summer's dream and they just put me to sleep

Hope and you and some foolish school of thought I brought myself into
You and the wicked man who weighs down on my mind
So this is what you've done with your time
And every time that I would kill for you; I have to take them back Because with you tied to my heart like that I could have a heart attack

You can blame me for this weakness
I can blame you for my disease
Because you left the door open way too long
And now I'm suffering from the breeze
So say goodbye to the times where all my passion lies Say goodbye to the ghosts you call men
I call ghosts and you can tell them that I was kind
So this is what you've done with your time
So this is what you've done with your time
