

Rick Danko

"It Makes No Difference"

Visit "It Makes No Difference" on MotoLyrics.com

It makes no difference where I turn
Can't get over you and the flame still burns
And it makes no difference, night or day
Shadows never seem to fade away

And the sun don't shine anymore
And the rains fall down on my door

Now there's no love as true as the love that dies untold
And the clouds never hung so low before

And it makes no difference how far I go
Just like that scar the hurt will always show
And it makes no difference who I meet
They're just a face in the crowd on a dead-end street

And the sun don't shine anymore
The rains fall down on my door

Well, these old love letters
You know, I just can't keep all the love letters
'Cause like that gambler said, "Just read them and weep"

Now the dawn don't rescue me, no more
Without your love, I am nothing at all
Like an empty hall, it's a lonely fall
Since you've been gone, it's a losin' battle
Stampedin' cattle, 'cause they rattle my walls

And the sun don't shine anymore
The rains fall down on my door

Well, I love you so much, that's all that I can do
Just to keep myself from ever tellin' you, love
That I've never felt so alone before

Visit Rick Danko page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.