(Rick Nelson - Dennis Larden)

Go down to the sea
Put your ears to the ground
And open your heart to the waves
And the sounds that they make
As they break along the shore
Never more to pass this way again.

Open your eyes to the cries of the crane
And look to the skies
For a life that you won't see again
As the silence cuts the glenn
Never more to pass this way again.

Never coming through here, oh no
My time is through here - that, I know
And all that I leave I bequeth to my son
And beg his forgiveness for
All that I've done in his name
As the cycle comes to end
Never more to pass this way again.

Never coming through here my friend
I know my road has reached the end
Never more to pass this way again...
