Have you ever been so down every time you looked around despair is like a silently cloud beside you well centuries fly and decades pass buildings fall and mountains last today is not to give you but to guide you

But you can't look
what is done is done
and the time that you spent on yesterday today is halfway gone
and we learn to live our days one by one

Have you ever loved so hard you opened up and dropped your guard and fell to earth your feelings burned and branded well love is like a lady's song takes you in and leads you on and in the morning leaves you high and stranded

But you can't look
what is done is done

[interlude]

[repeat chorus]
