People come and go
People change their minds
People give there hearts
And mean it at the time

A shift in the wind
No reason why
And at the drop of a tear
Someone says goodbye

But God as my witness
Without a doubt
I'll love you tomorrow
Like I love you now

I'm here for you
For the good and the bad
Take the weight of the world
And divide it in half

In the years to come
There will be one
Promise that always holds true
I'm here for you

I know that you're scared
It's hard to have faith
When so many dreams
Somehow lose their way

The path isn't narrow
It turns and it twists
But I knew my future
The first time we kissed

But God as my witness
You can be sure
This heart you're holding
Will always be yours

I'm here for you
For the good and the bad

Take the weight of the world
Divide it in half

In the years to come
There will be one
Promise that always holds true
I'm here for you

In the years to come
There will be one
Promise that always holds true
I'm here for you
