Subversive mystics
Taking over you

Spent my self worth
On your unworthy soul
But i will regain the toll

The past is all that remains
Over skies turned black blue and gray

Capture the wreckage that holds strong
To your restrain these words will stain

You said shred
Trust here in now
But i found new eyes to clear

The past is all that remains
Over skies turned black blue and gray
Through a shield of fears
You say return but your hand led me here

Sorry i broke you calm
Over so many storms
But you crawled onto night
So i shine

Ultravioletfly

I sense the night bending towards me
The rhythm is slowed but deep
Blackened tips of desire
Cannot keep out of my reach
Orchid covered deadwood breeze
Wakes the sickness from the leaves
I laid back and counted stars
Didn't stop my violent seed

Intoxication pollen
Begins to swim around me
The bitter taste of temptation

Evokes a slow sweet ecstasy
The guilt of self-destruction
Beads up and rolls off of me
And sinks into the earth and Takes with it my purity

From breaking free

Swallowed down resistance growing from the innate drive to rise
Rise like a street steam night spy mixing with the sky

Ultraviolet

Ghost whispers burning my ears
I'm wrapped in words like wire
Appearing to disappear
Like a small dying fire
My hands shake the sting escapes
Heated hearts must expire
And slowly regenerate
The lust for this peace won't tire

I'm breaking free

Descending from thunder
Fixed in your eyes in mine
Now Let go eternal wanting
And I run into your mind
