1) Tonight I look up into the night sky,
I see the happy moon, looking down on me,
Then he came passing by, thinking what I had in mind
Hoping that maybe he could pull it out like my own grey hairs
Standing right beside me, his curiosity grows
He just wouldn't let me go, until I finally let it this out Â–
Caska... Caska...
You're so addictive, you're one in a million
Caska... Caska...
You're just so wonderful
You're just incomparable

2) Shaking his big head, Moonie shrugged a bit, Confused on who or what this caska might actually be
I stood up facing him, giving him the grin,
I pointed my finger at the girl on my computer screen
He then smiled back at me, shaking my hand
He bade me farewell and these words kept ringing in my mind like Â–
Caska... Caska...
You're so addictive, you're one in a million
Caska... Caska...
You're just so wonderful
You're just incomparable

3) Finally I realized, my need to take some rest,
But before I kill myself, I looked up to the sky once more
I can see the stars in the night sky talking to the moon,
Asking him why He was so happy in his time with me,
He said "The boy down there is in love with a girl;
I bet his mind is still singing what he told me Â–"
Caska... Caska...
You're so addictive, you're one in a million
Caska... Caska...
You're just so wonderful
You're just incomparable
