i always see you when you're sleeping malice runs deeper, deeper than you think my body aches, aches to make a fist your guilt is harder, harder than you think i saw you leave, closing doors behind you left her with your guilt pouring from her neck and then i said, and then i thought throw your eyes back over the barrier choking lies an exterior you're running away from me running away from me

get back get back, FROM ME, ten secs to move shattered glass held against her bluetips, her pretty eyes shine in black and pretty eyes flood back in black and crimson
